HOMewood

Alabama

Everyone agrees that Homewood, Alabama is truly a community that "Has it All."

Truly unique and diverse, quietly nestled just south of Birmingham, Alabama, Homewood prides itself in its ability to seamlessly blend southern hospitality with modern progress and economic development. It offers the best in quiet, simple living, while also serving as bustling hometown to a variety of businesses. Among the many employers who have taken advantage of Homewood's generous hospitality are Southern Progress, publishers of Southern Living, Southern Accents, Cooking Lite and Progressive Farmer magazines; leading manufacturers and distributors Buffalo Rock/Pepsi Cola and Barber's Dairy. Some of the most highly respected names in wellness care also reside here in Homewood: Brookwood Hospital and the Lakeshore Rehabilitation Hospital. Prestigious educational facilities at Samford university, the Herzing Institute, Virginia College, and the Career Learning Center, are here to meet the educational challenges faced by today's and tomorrow's students. These are but a few of the major players who take pride in making Homewood their hometown.

The Homewood Chamber of Commerce provides strength and leadership for both businesses and residents in this city of 24,000. The Chamber serves to educate newcomers and visitors year-round. The Chamber is proud of Homewood's heritage and it shows. Executive Director Scott Moreland welcomes new businesses and residents to the city with open arms and unsurpassed 'red carpet' treatment, making Homewood the ideal place to experience authentic Southern Hospitality.

The same hospitality extends throughout the community, especially in the city's 58 restaurants where culinary delights of every type, from down-home Southern dishes to exotic delicacies from around the world, find their way to the plates of satisfied diners. The city also has a rapidly expanding hospitality industry that features a growing number of first-rate hotels. Each is sure to accommodate the special needs of travelers and visitors who should not miss a memorable tour along picturesque Lakeshore Drive. Off of I-65 are also a variety of hotels. Eateries and shops, conveniently located to serve travelers' needs.

Education has always been a top priority in Homewood. The elementary schools are consistently recognized for their excellence and have won National Blue Ribbon awards for education. As recently as 1996, Money Week magazine recognized Homewood's first-rate public education system. There are several private schools and many daycare facilities. Private Samford University, located on a scenic Williamsburg-style campus, is ranked among the nation's top universities.

Homewood's cultural life is rich and varied. The city has a first-rate public library and places a high priority on fine arts education and programs. The Homewood School of Ballet, which also includes Scottish Country Dance and the Children's Dance Foundation, allow students young and old to experience the joy and beauty of dance. The Alabama Junior Qualifying Tennis Tournaments comes to the West Homewood Parks for the first time in 30 years.

The Spires of many churches, representing every denomination, reach to the heavens above. Homewood's faith community and citizens enjoy a relaxed, "Mayberryesque" atmosphere focused around togetherness, faith and progress.

Avid shoppers need no farther than Homewood to satisfy their every need. A centralized shopping district along the 18th Street Plaza features many exclusive stores and retail venues. Located near the Red Mountain Expressway are many fine art galleries to suit those with more discriminating tastes, while Muriefield Village and Merchant's Walk are shopping havens with treasures just waiting to be discovered. A relaxed, Casual day of quaint sidewalk dining and leisurely window shopping awaits in Oxmoor, through the Edgewood area. "We Love Homewood Day" ends in a street dance celebrated at Edgewood every year as well. Green Springs offers even more shopping adventure and restaurants while the inviting West Oxmoor are is hard to resist. Brookwood Mall, on the city's south side, is a fully enclosed shopping center on one end of Lakeshore Drive. On the other end is Homewood's newest retail area, Wildwood, which offers several outlet stores, retailers, and full service restaurants.

Homewood is a town rich in tradition, pride and Southern hospitalities, yet highly focused with a commitment to ensuring future success and progress for all of its citizens. Stop by for a visit and you'll see why there is no better place to call home than Homewood, Alabama.

About Us

Greetings from the Mayor's Office:

As you take time to get to know our city and its people, you'll find Homewood to be most unique in many ways.

Our residential areas offer diversity from the historic homes of the Hollywood neighborhood to the very modern houses in Huntington Park and Camden Place.

Our business districts provide a wide array of choices in shopping styles and conveniences: from Brookwood Village and Wildwood Shopping Center with their national and regional chains to downtown Homewood and Edgewood with their locally owned businesses that offer distinctly different merchandise, you can find it in Homewood.

More importantly, our citizens possess and promote a strong sense of community that is centered around our children and young people.

The churches of Homewood work very hard to maintain a wide range of youth programs that appeal to children and young people. And our entire community is solidly behind the ongoing improvement of Homewood's public school system that is ranked one of the best in Alabama.

One of the best ways to experience Homewood's sense of community is to enjoy a hot dog with the parents of over 1,400 youths at a spring softball or baseball game.

Homewood is a small town in the middle of a metropolitan area. We are a city of both diversity and unity. We are both the historic and the new. We are more than just a city...we are a state of mind.

Sincerely,

Barry R. McCulley
Mayor of Homewood

Public Library

The Homewood Public Library is the center of cultural and academic research in Homewood, serving 24,000 residents and 100,000 more from surrounding South Jefferson County. It ranks in the top 10 percent among Alabama's Public Libraries in many aspects: per capita funding, staff, book and video collections, and in organization and management.

The Homewood Public Library is open 68 hours per week except for holidays. It houses 93,000 volumes and circulates more than 300,000 items annually. Each year more than 350,000 come to the Homewood Public Library and more than 46,000 people are in attendance at special programs and meetings. Prominent authors and illustrators have been featured in our most popular programs.

In the Adult and Young Adult Department librarians are available to help users needing assistance with homework, research or technology, using books periodicals and computers.

Comfortable seating is provided for magazine and newspaper reading and a beautiful courtyard is nearby for a reading break. Programs such as the Young Adult Chess Club, the Brown Bag Film Series and visiting authors are other forms of reading breaks that many enjoy.

The Library's computer lab, the Don E. Hatcher Technology Center, allows patrons of all ages to use computers and it serves as a classroom for specific software applications. Instructions are offered on everything from basic use to surfing the Internet.

The Library's Coffee Shop frames gallery space devoted to innovative displays and a wonderful view of the Courtyard. It has become a favorite meeting place for all library patrons.

About Us

Our 56th Year as a Chamber of Commerce and still going strong!

The Homewood Chamber of Commerce offers a variety of advantages to members. Homewood is one of the oldest and most established communities in the Birmingham, Alabama metro area. Many prestigious facilities call Homewood "home." Samford University, the Cumberland School of Law, Virginia College, Herzing Institute, Lakeshore Rehabilitation Hospital, Southern Progress Corporation, Brookwood Hospital, and many more. The Homewood Chamber reaches out to the self-employed individual as well as the large corporation. The Chamber membership renewal rate has consistently been over 95%, helping it to become one of the largest and best chambers in the five-county metro-Birmingham area, as well as the largest "over the mountain" chamber. The Executive Director and Board of Directors work closely with local city government leaders to ensure the continued success of the Homewood business community and enhance the lives of local citizens.
